

Result Summary

The valuable final product of a CT process or session is always one or more new intuitive understandings directly related to the subject under consideration and may be accompanied by a regained ability.

The secondary final product of a CT process is desirable changes in the quality of life as experienced by the person. The valuable final product of a course is the ability to apply the data of the subject.

My Story

Date _____

Course / Type of Processing _____

Name _____

Place _____

Okay to publish in whole or in part with my initials

Not okay to publish